Five Killed By Bomb In Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A bomb killed five persons in downtown Beirut yesterday, shattering a relative calm that had prevailed in the revolt-shaken capital since U.N. peace-making efforts began.

The bomb apparently was intended to frighten shoppers and shopkeepers who defied a general strike ordered more than a month ago by rebels trying to overthrow President Camille Chamoun.

A woman and her child were among the victims. Many other shoppers were shielded by an empty bus parked at the curb.

Crowded Bus
It was the worst terrorist bombing since a crowded bus was blasted several weeks ago.

Another bomb went off shortly afterward on another downtown street, ripping the door from a shop. One person was injured by flying glass.

Supporters and opponents of the government were expected to denounce the bombings. The government had hoped the arrival of U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld in the Middle East last week would mean an easing of tension.

Hammarskjöld left Beirut Saturday for Cairo but plans to return today. He came to Lebanon shortly after the U.N. began sending observers to check on the Lebanese complaints against Syria, a province of the United Arab Republic.

100 Killed By Blast In Brazil

SAO SALVADOR, Brazil (AP) — More than 100 persons were reported killed and 340 injured yesterday in two great chain-reaction explosions in fireworks stores.

The fireworks were being prepared and vended for the traditional June celebrations of saints days.

Faced with the twin disasters in Bahia State, the government took steps to ban all fireworks.

Single Explosion

Reports from Santo Amaro, 15 miles north, said about 100 were killed and 300 injured in a single blast there. A broken electric power line was blamed for the original ignition.

A similar fireworks blowup in Petrópolis was reported to have killed seven and injured 40. Santa Amaro officials sent out urgent appeals for medical aid, dispatches said. Some deaths were attributed to lack of immediate medical attention. Rains were hampering first rescue efforts.

Yugoslavia Protest

BELGRADE (AP) — Yugoslavia made a strong protest to the Hungarian government yesterday against the execution of Hungarian ex-Premier Imre Nagy.

It declared the Hungarian government "has taken on itself the full responsibility for consequences which might follow."

Russian Mob Attacks Embassy

MOSCOW (AP) — A Russian crowd in a vicious mood attacked West Germany's Embassy with stones, sticks and ink bottles yesterday in revenge for the assault on the Soviet Embassy in Bonn last week.

As the window-smashing demonstration raged, a handful of Soviet police raced back and forth blowing whistles and shouting. Soviet mounted police broke it up two hours after it began.

Foreign correspondents, including this one, were roughed up and shoved around as they attempted to take pictures. West German Ambassador Hans Kroll said he has delivered "the strongest possible protest" to a Soviet deputy foreign minister, A. V. Zakharov. He said he tried to see Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko but failed. Kroll said he demanded an apology, full compensation for damages and assurances that the incident would not be repeated.

Crowd Swells
Starting out with about 500 men and women the crowd swelled quickly to 1,500. The Russians smashed almost every window in the two-story building with a barrage of sticks and stones. Then they crashed ink bottles against its gray walls, turning the front almost completely blue.

Ink-stained curtains flapped in the breeze through the broken windows. Broken glass, stones, sticks and banners saying "Down with provocateurs" littered the street and embassy grounds.

The damage seemed greater than that resulting from an assault on the Danish Embassy in Moscow last Friday.

Kroll said in the front and side rooms the floors were littered with bricks, stones and metal, and the walls splattered with ink.

At the height of the demonstration, Max Frankel, correspondent for the New York Times, was chased into a side entrance of the embassy by one segment of the crowd.

Independent reports to London said Frankel's camera was smashed. They said Kroll asked for police protection two days ago. The attack on the Soviet Embassy in Bonn last Friday which provoked this one — was attributed to Hungarians and other refugees from the Iron Curtain protesting the execution of Imre Nagy and others who figured in the Hungarian revolt of 1956 which was crushed by the Soviets.

The mob hurled ink bottles and stones at the Soviet Embassy in Bonn yesterday. Hungarian students accused the West German police of unnecessary brutality in breaking up their demonstration.

The demonstration in Moscow started with the first segment of the crowd marching toward the embassy from several directions. Only a few Soviet police guards were on duty. In the crowd were teenagers as well as adults. There was a one-legged, middle-aged man with a crutch.

They seemed well-organized. Gathering outside the embassy, they started chanting anti-German slogans and waving their banners attached to heavy sticks.

Negro Leaders Confer With President

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four Negro leaders took word to President Eisenhower yesterday that a court order delaying school integration in Little Rock, Ark., outraged their race. They said they got a sympathetic reception but no promises.

The spokesmen told Eisenhower that Saturday's ruling by U.S. Dist. Judge Harry Lemley, postponing integration 2½ years, "is being construed rightly or wrongly, as a green light to lawless elements in their defiance of federal authority."

Specifically, they urged Eisenhower to direct the Justice Department to file a brief against the decision when it is appealed. The four also laid before Eisenhower other requests for action in the fields of integration and civil rights. Neither on the Little Rock ruling, nor on any of the other points, they said, did Eisenhower make any pledges or commitments.

45 Minutes

But they said that out of their 45-minute conference with the President grew a little bit better understanding of Eisenhower's position and a bit better understanding of their position on his part.

"I should say," A. Philip Randolph of New York told reporters, "that the conference has put a new hope into the hearts of Negroes throughout the country."

Randolph, president of the International Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and a vice president of the AFL-CIO, called this the most important accomplishment of the meeting.

Randolph said Eisenhower was "gracious, friendly, kindly, cooperative and sympathetic," even though he made no comment whatever on Judge Lemley's order deferring integration and took no positive stand on the various requests put to him.

Lester B. Granger, executive secretary of The National Urban League, said the program presented to the President was not something on which he should reach his decisions in a brief conference. He said it would be invidious had Eisenhower said immediately that "I will do this or that."

The others present were Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, and the Rev. Martin Luther King, who led a Negro boycott of Montgomery, Ala., busses.

Also sitting in were Atty. Gen. Rogers and two presidential aides who handle minority and special problems.

While the Negroes praised Eisenhower's use of troops at Little Rock, his efforts to end segregation in government, and the enactment of a civil rights law last year, they said these are not enough. So they urged:

1. That Eisenhower proclaim to the nation, before schools open in September, "that the law will be vigorously upheld with the total resources at his command."

2. That a White House conference be called to discuss methods of obtaining peaceful compliance with court integration rulings.

3. That government agencies supply information, resources and advice to all communities and officials seeking to solve school integration problems.

4. That the President appeal to both political parties to support civil rights legislation which would include a provision, rejected last year, to spell out more power for the U. S. attorney general to enforce all civil rights.

5. That a presidential directive go to the Justice Department to file a brief as a friend of the court in an appeal from the Lemley ruling and to provide "all legal assistance possible."

6. That Eisenhower also order the department to "protect the right of citizens to register and vote," so that thousands of Negroes will not "be denied the right to cast a ballot in the 1958 election."

'Man's Home Is His Castle'

Supreme Court Rules For Arrested Suspect

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, citing the adage that every man's home is his castle, yesterday freed a man described by a dissenting justice as a wholesale narcotics violator.

"Every householder, the good and the bad, the guilty and the innocent, is entitled to the protection designed to secure the common interest against unlawful invasion of the house," Justice Brennan wrote for the majority.

Brennan said officers who had no warrant broke into the Washington apartment of William Miller without telling him they had come to arrest him.

Adams To Remain At Post Despite Newest Demands

Hoffa Acquitted Of Wiretapping Charges

NEW YORK (AP) — Teamsters President James R. Hoffa was acquitted last night in a second trial on charges of wiretapping the union's Detroit headquarters.

Two other defendants, Owen B. Brennan, president of Detroit Teamsters Local 337, and Bernard Spindel, professional New York wiretapper, also were found innocent by a jury that had the case nine hours.

The three were accused in a conspiracy count of wiretapping the union headquarters in 1953 so Hoffa could eavesdrop on union employees. The penalty under the federal statute was a maximum five years and $10,000 fine if convicted.

The federal district court jury of eight men and four women got the case at 11:35 a. m. after a month-long second trial. The first trial ended late last year in a hung jury.

In two trials, U. S. Atty. Paul Williams tried to surmount the testimony of his own witnesses that Hoffa and the other defendants got together in Detroit July 9, 1953, for a test of wiretapping apparatus.

The defense offered evidence that, on the contrary, Hoffa was in Seattle on that date in connection with a union conference.

That the jury considered these conflicting claims carefully was evidenced late in the day by their request for air line schedules between Detroit and Seattle for that date.

Spectators in the crowded courtroom clapped and cheered the verdict until Judge Thomas F. Murphy admonished them firmly against further demonstrations.

Hoffa's first reaction was to rush into the 13th floor corridor outside the courtroom to telephone the news to his wife in Detroit. He told reporters: "I could have a lot to say but my attorneys advised me not to make any comment."

A previous trial of the charges ended last Dec. 20, with the original jury hung 11-1 for Hoffa's conviction.

Conrad Flies Light Plane 4,440 Miles Over Atlantic

PALERMO, Sicily (AP) — Max Conrad, a flying grandfather, wound up a storm-plagued, 4,440-mile, nonstop flight from New York in his single-engine plane last night, tired but triumphant. A long radio silence had aroused fears that he had crashed.

"It was a wonderful, but very tiring adventure," said the 55-year old father of 10 children as he clambered out of his little Piper Comanche at Palermo's Bocca di Falco Airport.

"I was caught in a tempest over the Balearics (islands east of Spain) and had to fly only 100 yards above the sea. I also ran into very strong headwinds between Sardinia and Sicily."

Conrad completed the marathon hop—his 40th and longest light-plane flight—in 32 hours, 48 minutes. The elapsed time beat his own prediction of 33 hours by 12 minutes.

The veteran amateur pilot, a native of Winona, Minn., and resident of San Francisco, arrived puffily-eyed with weariness and stubble beard.

A small crowd that gathered at the airport to welcome Conrad swept him onto its shoulders and carried him off the field.

He smiled happily and told them: "Now please let me sleep."

Apprehension had mounted as Conrad's plane, heading for Europe's coast through a heavy overcast, remained out of radio contact for eight hours. Then word came at 5:45 p. m. as he signaled the Palermo control tower for landing clearance.

He has spanned the Atlantic 39 times in light planes.

Russell Halts Hearing On Defense Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) of the Senate Armed Services Committee yesterday called off further testimony by military chiefs on the defense reorganization bill until he gets a promise they can give their views without fear of reprisal.

In taking this action, Russell denounced what he called totalitarian-like tactics by Secretary of Defense McElroy against Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, chief of naval operations, for criticizing the administration plan before Russell's committee.

Statement
"The clear implication in the secretary's statement is that the Joint Chiefs must conform or be purged," Russell said in a statement. Asserting this "is more in keeping with the totalitarian concept of government" than with a democracy, Russell declared:

"A witness testifying under the sword of reprisal will find it difficult to give his views."

Flaw Found In Cheryl's Testimony

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Cheryl Crane told again yesterday of the stabbing of Johnny Stompanato, a lawyer said her story differed in an important detail from that of her mother, Lana Turner.

Attorney William J. Pollack, representing Stompanato's heirs, said Cheryl's version of the slaying of her mother's lover raised a question as to where in Lana's bedroom the stabbing took place.

The girl, 14, and her glamorous mother, together with attorneys and a probation officer, appeared at Pollack's office to give a deposition in connection with a $750,000 damage suit brought on behalf of Stompanato's son, John Stompanato II, 10, of Hammond, Ind. The slaying of Stompanato was slain without cause.

Private Testimony
The testimony was private, but later Pollack quoted Cheryl as having said that Stompanato's body lay with the head against a dresser and the feet toward the foot of the bed.

"We believe he could not have fallen that way," Pollack said.

At a corner's inquest in which the slaying was held justifiable homicide, Miss Turner testified the stabbing took place near the door of her bedroom. Pollack said Cheryl's testimony indicates Stompanato was stabbed in another part of the room.

Both Lana and her daughter left the office hurriedly without talking to reporters. Jerry Giesler, attorney for Cheryl, said only that the girl's testimony was the same as she had given before.

Movie Actor's Yacht Still Missing

TOKYO (AP) — Actor John Calvert's manager said today he fears Calvert's yacht with the actor and four other Americans aboard has been captured by the Chinese Communists.

The yacht Thespian of Los Angeles left Keelung, Formosa, June 16 for Japan. Calvert had expected to reach Japan Thursday or Friday.

Japanese fishing vessels have been ordered to look for the 95-ton, two-masted yacht.

Calvert, a Hollywood actor and magician, owns and sails the Thespian himself.

A Japanese trawler spotted a ship resembling the Thespian Friday 80 miles southeast of Shanghai. The trawler reported it was drifting northwestward in a calm sea.

Coast Guard

The Japanese Coast Guard said it would search for the yacht if necessary but added that it might have been delayed by bad weather. No distress signal has been received.

John C. Lipham of Honolulu, business manager for the yacht's voyages said:

"He's been overdue much too long. In my opinion, the reason we haven't heard from him is that a Chinese patrol probably picked him up and he's very likely spending time in China trying to get free."

With Calvert, a former stage musician who played "The Falcon" in a movie series, were:

Mrs. Constance Conrad Lowe, his mother-in-law; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Iverson, Hollywood; and U.S. Army Sp. 3, C. Thomas E. Jones, Black River Falls, Wis.

The ship is on a round-the-world cruise. The main purpose is to film a 39-week television series.

Revenue Agents Locate $55,000

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Internal Revenue agents disclosed yesterday they seized $55,000 hidden in the home of a Pottsville, Pa., man who seven years ago tried to redeem a quarter of a million dollars in molybdenum he said he had buried in his backyard.

Daniel Tucker, chief of the intelligence division of the Philadelphia office of the Revenue Service, said the money found Saturday night in a raid on the home of Peter Joseph, 46, probably represented "the entire bank of the numbers business in Schuylkill County."

HARRISBURG (AP) — William Steinhart, Bloomsburg, was named yesterday to a $4,121 a year job as a state bank examiner.

Goldwater Opposes Ike's Aide

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) voiced a fresh demand yesterday that Sherman Adams resign as chief assistant.

Adams, under fire in congress for accepting costly favors from Boston industrialist Bernard Goldfine, indicated he has no intention of quitting his job — a decision received glumly by some Republicans.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-N.Y.) proposed creation of a commission charged with drafting a federal code of ethics to cover such cases as those in which Adams is involved.

Goldwater, who just returned from a meeting of Republican county chairmen in Arizona, said it was the unanimous opinion of that group Adams ought to resign.

"These are the people who get out the vote for Republican candidates," Goldwater said in an interview. "They believe that Adams ought to resign. Adams must go. If he doesn't resign, the President ought to ask for his resignation."

Rep. Clarence Brown, Republican national committeeman in Ohio, said in a statement many observers believe Adams will eventually retire from the national scene.

Injurious
Brown said the Adams affair has been injurious to the Republican cause and will undoubtedly be an issue in coming political campaigns.

"The whole affair has damaged the prestige of both the White House and Mr. Adams," he added.

An indication that Adams intends to stay in the White House was his declining an invitation to seek the Republican nomination for governor in his home state of New Hampshire.

"I feel I have a job to finish here," he said in a letter to Albert Levitt of Hancock, N.H., a former federal judge in the Virgin Islands. "Thank you, nevertheless."

Levitt wired Adams last Tuesday asking if he would accept the GOP nomination for the post Adams held from 1949 to 1953. Levitt added that "hundreds of admirers who believe in his honesty and probity are ready to nominate him and work for his election."

Sen. Carl T. Curtis (R-Nebr.), who has taken the position that Adams should go, reacted in obvious disappointment to Adams' indication he has no intention of quitting.

Asked if he still believes Adams ought to resign, Curtis replied: "I haven't changed my mind on that score."

Javits, without mentioning Adams by name, said that recent events in Washington involving the question of ethical standards of government may provide a most useful lesson if it leads to enactment of a federal code of ethics.

Suggestion
Javits suggested in a speech prepared for the Federation of Republican Women's Clubs at Cooperstown, N. Y., that a temporary commission be set up by Congress and the executive to work out such a code.

He said he will offer legislation patterned after New York State's code of ethics, under which an offending official can be dismissed from office.

Javits said the guiding rule of the New York code provides that no officer or employee "should have any interest, financial or otherwise, direct or indirect, or engage in any business or transaction or professional activity or incur any obligations of any nature which is in substantial conflict with the proper discharge of his duties in the public interest."

With the House Subcommittee on Legislative Oversight scheduled to resume hearings on the Adams case today, Rep. Morgan Moulder (D-Mo.) suggested that the group call Gerald D. Morgan, Eisenhower's special counsel.

"From what I hear, Mr. Morgan is more of a front man than Mr. Adams," Moulder said in an interview.

Steps Urged For Control Of Insects

By Robert H. Stauffer
Assistant County Agent

THERE ARE various insects which have appeared or will appear shortly which might cause damage to farm crops, vegetables and ornamentals if they are not controlled.

Chinch Bugs—This is the time of year when the chinch bugs start moving from ripening barley and other small grains into young corn fields nearby. This area should be watched closely during the next few weeks. A band of dieldrin applied between the grain and corn fields will prevent damage to the corn.

Vegetable Insects—Mexican bean beetles are showing up on bean plants. These can be controlled with parathion. Also check cabbage plants for cabbage worms which can also be controlled with parathion.

Powder Post Beetles—This is the last call for treating infested lumber and building with DDT. The adult beetles are laying eggs and the insecticide should be applied before the young grubs enter the wood.

Four-lined Plant Bug—This bug is starting to cause damage to flower gardens and on many ornamental plants. Chrysanthemums seem to be one of their favorite host plants. The bugs have three greenish-yellow stripes and four black stripes down the back. The underside of the insect has a light orange color. The injury usually appears as small, round, brown spots on leaves. Heavily infested plants are retarded and may be killed by this feeding. Best control is obtained with DDT and methoxychlor.

Ornamental Insects—Bagworms are just starting to hatch. Check arborvitae, juniper, and other host plants. Malathion, parathion and lead arsenate will give control.

Fall Webworms are appearing in some areas. They feed on a wide variety of shade and forest trees. They have dirty, loosely-woven webs or tents over the tips of the branches on which they are feeding. The caterpillars are pale-yellow with small black dots and are very hairy. They are easily killed with most of the insecticides. This is a different insect than the eastern tent caterpillar. The tent caterpillar has only one generation per year and their feeding period ended several weeks ago.

CELEBRATING SIGNAL CORPS ANNIVERSARY—Tobyhanna Signal Depot Commander Clifford A. Poutre marked the 98th birthday of the U. S. Army Signal Corps recently by cutting a huge cake in the depot cafeteria. On hand for the celebration were Joe Williams, Pittston, in Union Army Civil War uniform, and John Pionteki, Tobyhanna, a veteran of 49 years with the Signal Corps.

Electronics May Someday Be Used To Aid Individual In Figuring Income Tax Returns

POCONO MANOR—The wizardry of electronics soon may be used to tell you whether you have underpaid or overpaid your Federal income tax.

Russell C. Harrington, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, yesterday said the idea is being tested under a broad program designed to learn how electronics can help the agency meet its ever-increasing workloads.

Speaking at a breakfast meeting of the Pennsylvania Institute of Certified Public Accountants here at Pocono Manor Inn, Harrington said: "Heretofore, we have had to make a manual selection of returns for audit. Under our electronic experiment, we are trying to take advantage of mass production techniques to do the job faster, more accurately and, we hope, at less cost."

Another possibility under study, Harrington said, is the use of electronics to analyze the tax returns of entire industries, with each industry considered as a separate audit unit.

The industry study he said, may achieve two ends—one, identifying more accurately and economically the categories of returns most likely to be in error and, two, helping industries improve the report-

Committee Sets Stage

WASHINGTON—The House Agriculture Committee set the stage for another election-year farm battle yesterday by approving a catch-all bill that already is threatened with a possible presidential veto.

Split along party lines, the committee voted 21-10 to send to the House floor a bill continuing the overseas surplus disposal program and proposing controversial new price support programs for wheat, rice, cotton, feed grains and milk.

Never Let Them Forget

Hungarians, at least those outside their Red-ruled homeland, are not anxious to let Russia forget the recent execution of four Hungarian revolution leaders.

Latest demonstration in protest against the murders took place Sunday in New York where 350 screaming Hungarian refugees trampled police while smashing windows at headquarters of the Soviet delegation to the United Nations.

In executing former Hungarian Premier Imre Nagy and three other leaders, Russian Communists behaved exactly as Josef Stalin would have decreed. They followed their old pattern of using the double-cross whenever it suits their purpose. They've turned back again to ruling by terror.

Since the Hungarian Revolution in the Fall of 1956, Nagy has represented—even though ineffectually—the spirit of resistance which the Kremlin must be forever stamping out.

When Russian troops, under pretense of friendship, marched into Budapest, they spilled blood heartlessly in putting down the revolution. Nagy was forced to flee to the Yugoslavian Embassy for sanctuary.

This, however, wasn't enough for the Kremlin. Through its puppet Hungarian regime, it offered Nagy a guarantee of safe conduct from the Yugoslavian headquarters.

When the deposed premier accepted this guarantee in good faith and left the embassy, the Communists went back on their word and seized him. They shipped him off to exile in Romania, then held him there incommunicado until his death.

Looking at what has happened to Nagy, who can now say—inside or outside the Kremlin—that Communism permits satellite nations any real degree of self determination?

The real answer is found in the fact that Communists can never be trusted. Let the fate which has befallen Imre Nagy be forever a warning of the deceit, the hypocrisy, the treachery to which free men must expect always to be subjected when they risk dealing with Moscow.

Bigger Cars Ahead

Despite all the talk about smaller cars, partly brought on by the success of some small European models in the United States, the word from Detroit is that 1959 model automobiles will be lower and longer.

This is the standard trend, which has been continuing in the United States for many years. The 1959 model automobile is to be a big, glamorous automobile—but without radical automotive changes.

From Detroit it is said that the American buying public still prefers the rather large American car. While it is admitted that the small car has made inroads in the market in the United States in recent years, and while there is a possibility that several major automobile makers will actively push a smaller automobile, the fact remains that Detroit still furnishes the vast majority of cars for the American buyer.

The American-type automobile, as it is known, is going to remain just what it is, except that it is going to be just a little bigger for next year.

The Pennsylvania Story

Pothole Highway

By Mason Davidson
Harrisburg—Pennsylvania at its present rate stands an excellent chance of becoming known as "pothole highway."

The distinction can be a tribute largely to the manner in which the Department of Highways has let go to pot its program of maintenance—not in the newer roads which need comparatively no maintenance, but on the deteriorating older roads networking the Commonwealth.

Departmental bureaucrats around Capitol Hill blandly insist that they are doing no such thing.

To prove the point they produce endless columns of financial statistics showing that "such things, my dear fellow, simply could not be the case."

To those professionals who are interested in featherbedding their own political nest we would say simply and emphatically: "nuts."

(And to those hard core partisan diehards who contend that assertions such as these now being made in this column are a spool-sport attack on Democrats who happen to hold the upper hand in the present administration, we would simply say that it could undoubtedly just as well happen under a Republican administration. The point is, Democrats are in the throne room of responsibility now—not Republicans.

Poorly Maintained
Why has maintenance of Pennsylvania's existing highways become so shoddy? There are several answers.

A look at the departmental fiscal fountainhead is of more than passing interest.

In the two-year 1953-55 biennial period preceding the present Leader Administration, actual expenditure by the Department of Highways totaled $370,936,372.

In the 1955-57 biennium (first biennium of the Leader Administration) expenditure authorized by the governor totaled $441,493,593—but of this amount the department was unable to spend roughly $85 million, leaving an actual expenditure for the biennium of around $352 million.

(Note: At this time of general upswelling elsewhere in road building activity, actual expenditure by the present Department of Highways was less than in the preceding biennium.)

For the current 1957-59 biennium, the governor in his budget presented to the 1957 Legislature asked for $606,765,392—but gubernatorial authorizations even at the present time, with half of the biennium to go, already total $672 million.

Thus in theory at least, maintenance funds for Pennsylvania's growing pothole highways should be available. They aren't. What has happened?

The administration is straining every publicity possibility to the bitter end in a determined effort in this campaign year 1958 to produce a top flight "on-paper" showing in the field of highway construction activity.

Every available cent that can be found is being poured into the spectacular Federal Interstate Highway Program—the building of the network of four-lane limited access expressways. These are the eye-catchers of present day motorcade and highway building.

Much of the normal maintenance allocation is going into this giant pot. To get the 90 cents on the dollar the Federal Government is providing, Pennsylvania (and other states) must put up 10 cents. But first of all Pennsylvania must build the roads before it is eligible for Federal reimbursement, which entails expensive engineering design—and immediate cash.

The cash is being siphoned off maintenance and similar quick-touch available!

Arabian Nights

George Sokolsky Says...

Question Of Logic

John H. Baker, writing in "Outdoor America" on the danger of our being poisoned by DDT and similar chemicals, opens his article with this paragraph:

"What is the greatest threat to life on earth? The Communist? No. The fact that so many people now think they constitute the greatest threat is pretty sure indication that they do not."

I do not quite understand. If we all agree that Soviet Russia is a threat to us, does that prove that it is not? If the Western world fears the impact of Communism, does that mean that there is no such impact? If everybody believes that black is black and red is red does that mean that all is white?

Actually, Baker is not making much of a point of his paragraph. What he wants to show is that the real menace of the age is toxic chemical treatment of the soil from airplanes to kill bugs. But the logic of that paragraph is intriguing.

Truly, the Communists are a much greater menace than ants or DDT now because Soviet Russia is adopting the most effective weapons of capitalism not to destroy capitalism but to reduce capitalist countries to impotence. And the most important and powerful of such weapons is gold.

Foreign Balances
As one reads the discussion on the subject of gold in the transcript of the Byrd Committee, it is impossible not to reach the conclusion that a very large amount of the gold held in Fort Knox no longer really belongs to the United States because of foreign balances and the actual sale of American gold to foreign countries.

Senator George Malone, interrogating Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey, raised the question as to what would happen if some European country demanded its earmarked gold. Malone asked:

"... suppose your suspicions were aroused by a $3 or $4 billion demand; could you yourself make the decision not to sell it to them or not to let them have it for the dollar balance?"

Trying to find out what happened to the gold in Fort Knox was like pulling teeth, slow and painful. For instance, such a discussion as the following was characteristic of the general tone:

"Senator Malone. Who owns that gold? Who owns that balance?"

"Secretary Humphrey. Private holdings."

"Senator Malone. In what way do they differ from the regular foreign official holdings?"

"Secretary Humphrey. Well, these are dollar balances of the private individuals in United States banks."

"Senator Malone. Does it have to be in United States banks?"

"Secretary Humphrey. Well, I think it is all in United States banks. It is dollar balances."

"Senator Malone. Well, the dollar balances, the dollars they might demand for currency, are not necessarily in domestic banks of the foreign official holdings; are they?"

"Secretary Humphrey. Well, these are not foreign officials. These are foreign individuals."

"Senator Malone. I understand that, but is it necessary for them to be in banks here? Could they not be in a bank in Europe?"

"Secretary Humphrey. I do not know."

This goes on and on but gets nowhere at all. Apparently nobody knows anything of what has been happening to our gold in Fort Knox. How much belongs to the United States absolutely?

Both Senator Malone and Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey were getting on each other's nerves as the following question from Senator Malone shows:

"The next question is how long would it take them, the individuals, to transfer it to a government central bank over there which could demand it here?"

"Secretary Humphrey. Well, I do not know. There are all sorts of varying restrictions. ... It would be different probably in each country."

Now to get back to Baker's statement that because many believe something "is pretty sure indication" that it is not so, the world has for many centuries put great faith in fold as a basis for currency. The United States departed from the gold standard in Roosevelt's first term and never returned. We put our gold in Fort Knox as a treasure trove. Now Soviet Russia is beginning to use gold as a weapon against the West and it is important to know how much gold we own absolutely. We could be defeated by gold in world trade.

While the boroughs of East Stroudsburg and Stroudsburg were going through a week of excitement with the Four-County Firemen's Convention, a new television repairman came to light.

Although we aren't going to list his name today, we hope he will open a shop in the near future.

We are anxious for the hero of this saga to open shop, because we will know where he is and just where we should be. The best place for everyone, if he goes into the business, is blocks away from our friend's shop.

Today's hero is especially good at the television antenna division. He recently climbed up on the roof of his father and mother's home to hook up the antenna.

While at work our repairman cut the rotor wires. Now for many repairs this wouldn't mean a thing, but for our friend it was a catastrophe. He didn't know how to make the necessary repairs.

Robert S. Allen Reports...

Teller Alters Stand

Washington—Dr. Edward Teller, "father" of the H-bomb and leading opponent of nuclear tests, is significantly modifying his position.

While still vigorously against ending all nuclear explosions, the noted University of California scientist would limit them by controlling the amount of radioactive fallout in the atmosphere.

Under Teller's proposal, the three nuclear powers—U. S., Britain and Russia—would "arrive at an agreement whereby the amount of radioactivity to be released in the future would equal the amount which is eliminated by the continuing decay of the activity from past tests."

Atomic Commission Chairman Lewis Strauss, who is quitting June 30, wanted President Eisenhower to name Teller as one of this country's scientist negotiators. Strauss and Teller have been close throughout the former's tenure in office.

But the President, instead, practical effect of Teller's plan, in the opinion of Pentagon experts, would be to drastically curb further nuclear tests.

Russia would be the hardest hit, as its weapons are the "dirtiest" with the heaviest radioactive fallout. Both the U. S. and Britain are concentrating on developing "clean" nuclear destructives.

Interestingly, Dr. Teller disclosed his new viewpoint following his backstage rejection as a member of the U. S. delegation to the conference, slated to be held in Geneva next month, to deliberate the feasibility of negotiating nuclear disarmament with the Soviet.

Another Plan—Dr. Teller made known his significant shift in position in a letter to Representative Carl Durham (D., N. C.), chairman of the Joint Atomic Committee.

At the same time Durham received this unexpected proposal, he got another from Dr. Arthur Compton, former head of Washington University, St. Louis, Mo., and one of the "fathers" of the original A-bomb.

Compton also would limit nuclear tests, but by restricting them to large weapons and underground explosions.

Under his plan, tests of tactical weapons would continue without restraints.

Both Compton's and Teller's concepts are being submitted to the President by Chairman Durham. In a recent New York address on "Radiation Hazards facing the U. S. and the world," the North Carolinian invited scientists to present their views on this increasingly critical problem.

In Dr. Compton's letter he expresses confidence on the ability to keep ahead of Russia, provided testing of tactical weapons is continued.

"I should not feel satisfied," states Compton, "that we can maintain the armed strength necessary for defense if we should agree to stop tests of our tactical bombs. But very possibly, such tests can be carried out underground. I do not believe that it would effect us more seriously than Russia to curtail our tests of large nuclear bombs."

"In fact, it should be good political strategy. I would see no great harm in announcing a unilateral cessation of nuclear tests in the large weapons field."

On the desirability of underground testing, Teller sharply differs with Compton. Teller cites the need to test anti-missile missiles at high altitudes.

"To limit future tests to underground explosions would have certain consequences which need to be carefully considered," Teller wrote Durham. "The development of the anti-missile missile requires testing at high altitudes. If such tests are forbidden, we shall be cut off from developing the anti-missile missiles."

On the other hand, the Berkeley, Calif., scientist contends his plan "is feasible and enforceable."

"In fact, it is the only feasible and enforceable agreement which has been proposed so far," declared Teller. "It would not interfere seriously with our national security. A limitation of this kind (in the amount of radioactivity to be released in the atmosphere) would be quite acceptable."

Note: Leading members of the Joint Atomic Committee are in no hurry to act on the appointment of John McCone, California industrialist, to the Atomic Energy Commission. The outlook is still that he will be confirmed, but some backstage opposition is manifesting itself. McCone is under close scrutiny by Democratic Committeemen. Several of them are privately hinting they are critical of him because of word that his chief sponsor for the AEC job was Vice President Nixon.

Dear Abby: I am 19 years old and am going with a boy who is 22 but he knows absolutely nothing about romance, especially how to kiss. He is kissing his grandmother (if you know what I mean). He just finished his Army hitch and says I am the kind of girl he would like to marry, but I don't know if he would make a good husband if he doesn't even know how to kiss a girl. Should I teach him or do you think he would wonder where I learned?

EDUCATED.

Dear Educated: Don't give him the post-graduate course unless you are prepared to tell him who gave you your diploma.

Dear Abby: I have a little girl, age seven, who is both beautiful and above average in intelligence. I am mentally sick and cannot give her the love and attention she needs. My mind is filled with thoughts of suicide. My wife runs around with other men and doesn't wake up until the child goes to her room in the morning and says, "Mommie, mommie, what dress should I wear?" My wife beats her and screams at her, "Leave me alone! I wish you were never born!" We are both unfit to raise this child. What must I do to save her?

SICK MAN.

Dear Sir: Get in touch with your CHILDREN'S PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION at once. In the meantime, since you are obviously sincere in your plea for help, I have taken the liberty of alerting the local authorities in your community. God bless you and good luck!

Dear Abby: My sister is always asking me if I think she's getting big in the hips. She is getting pretty broad because she has a job that requires her to sit all day. She always says, "Tell me the truth now, do you think I am getting hippy?" I'm afraid if I do, it will hurt her feelings. What should I say when she asks me next time?

LITTLE SISTER.

Dear Sis: Tell her the truth—but suggest that she get to the seat of the matter and combine diet with exercise.

Dear Abby: My wife had her third child yesterday and I am a nervous wreck. Why should a woman make such a howling fuss over a natural thing like giving birth? Dogs and cats go off and have their young without disturbing anyone. I remember my mother just laying down and another farm woman came in to take care of her while she had hers. Is the modern woman getting weaker or is she trying to get more attention than is her due?

WORN-OUT.

Dear Worn: Childbirth today is far easier (and certainly much safer) than it was when your mother "laid down" and had a farm woman attend her. Modern woman (like modern man) is as strong as she has to be.

Dear Abby: I am a man who likes to eat and I also like to have a couple of drinks. My wife is always giving me a lot of conversation about "gluttony" because she has her nose in the Bible all the time. I know a little about the Bible, too, and I am sure it says somewhere we should eat, drink and make merry. Will you please tell me where to find it? I want to show it to the wife.

No Sinner

Dear No: If you are referring to Chapter 22, verse 13 in Isaiah, you'd better read the entire passage, it says, "Let us eat and drink . . . for tomorrow we shall die." Bottoms up!

Try and Stop Me

An English Newspaper has been investigating a very important matter: the number of times a cuckoo can call without stopping. And since a great many English people take their bird-watching very seriously, letters have been pouring in on the subject.

One reader in Tilehurst reported he had heard a cuckoo call distinctly 121 times in succession. "A mere nothing," pooh-poohed another reader from Leamington Spa. Her cuckoo had sounded off 205 times without a pause that refreshes!

A third reader counted over 300 successive cuckoo calls, but honorably disqualified himself when he discovered he was standing outside a clock factory.

Monroe County Court Issues Ruling On Township Taxes

DeSanto To Pay In Coolbaugh

By Leonard Randolph

A COURT decree has ordered John F. DeSanto, Pocono Summit, to pay taxes in Coolbaugh Township.

An equity action in the case has been pending before President Judge Fred W. Davis for several years. During that time DeSanto has paid taxes to the County Prothonotary and the money has been held in escrow.

DeSanto—owner of Johnnie's Pocono Summit Inn—filed the action on April 9, 1940. Judge Davis handed down a decree this past week.

The action grows out of an uncommon situation. DeSanto's property at Pocono Summit lies partly in Coolbaugh Township and partly in Tobyhanna Township.

For many years the owners of the property had apparently paid taxes in Coolbaugh by their own election to do so.

Files Request
After DeSanto purchased the property, however, he filed a request with Monroe County Commissioners that he be taxed in Tobyhanna Township. The first two requests were filed on Dec. 1, 1938. A second was sent to Commissioners on April 4, 1945.

Since the dividing line between Coolbaugh and Tobyhanna Townships goes "straight through" the large house DeSanto owns, the court was asked to grant transfer of tax levying authority to Tobyhanna. DeSanto was, at first, listed as sole plaintiff in the action.

DeSanto owns and operates a hotel, dining room and bar on the property. This brought about further complications.

Since "before 1938," the Township of Tobyhanna has been receiving the return on DeSanto's liquor license. The Liquor Control Board examiner ruled that the business place is in Tobyhanna Township.

After the initial equity action was filed in 1940, the Court gave DeSanto permission to pay "the highest amount of taxes levied" by either township to the County Prothonotary.

The funds were set aside in a special account and are being held in escrow.

Deputy Prothonotary Florence Ridgeway said yesterday that the total amount now held is $4,678.50.

If the decree stands, that amount would go to Coolbaugh Township.

Township officials were not available for comment yesterday on whether they plan to appeal the decision.

Voting Registration
DeSanto considers himself a resident of Tobyhanna Township. He is registered to vote in that district.

In his decree, Judge Davis lists the following "Conclusions of Law":

1 — The lands of plaintiff having been assessed in Coolbaugh Township for the year 1938 and for many years prior thereto, it is presumed that a former owner of plaintiff's lands filed an election with the proper authorities to be assessed in Coolbaugh Township.

2 — The election filed by such prior owner was binding upon the owner filing the same and all subsequent owners, including (DeSanto).

3 — The purported elections attempted (in 1938 and 1945) were void and of no legal effect.

4 — The plaintiff's property is and at all times since Dec. 1, 1938 has been properly assessed in Coolbaugh Township.

5 — It has been improperly assessed in Tobyhanna Township for the years 1939 to 1958 inclusive.

6 — The Township of Coolbaugh and Coolbaugh Township School District are entitled to receive from the monies in the hands of the prothonotary for the years 1939-57 inclusive.

Six Cars Leave Tracks
WILKES-BARRE (P) — Six cars of a 45-car Jersey Central Railroad train were derailed here yesterday, causing extensive damage to several cars and the track area. Officials said they were unable to determine the cause.

The two-diesel train was enroute from Scranton to Jim Thorpe when the ninth car from the front jumped the rails near the Gardner Avenue grade crossing. As that car left the rails and was pulled along with its wheels on the railroad ties, the five cars following also were derailed.

Congressmen Use Caution
WASHINGTON (P) — Two congressional Democrats who have sharply criticized the Atomic Energy Commission yesterday cautiously predicted better relations between Congress and the AEC.

These expressions of opinion by Reps. Chet Hoffield (D-Calif.) and Melvin Price (D-Ill.) came in separate interviews.

PRIZE WINNER—This picture by the Daily Record's Rod MacLeod, won honorable mention in the Associated Press Pennsylvania Newspaper Contest for feature photos in cities under 50,000 population. Titled, "Storm, Read All About It," it shows Daily Record reporter Don Carlson seated on a bench on Main St. reading about the storm swirling around him.

MacLeod's Photo Wins State Mention

RODERICK G. MacLeod, chief photographer for The Daily Record, has been awarded an honorable mention in the annual Associated Press Pennsylvania Newspaper Contest.

The award, for feature photos in cities under 50,000 population, was presented to MacLeod at the annual Associated Press Managing Editors dinner June 28 at Clearfield.

Storm Picture
The award was based on MacLeod's picture, "Storm," which showed Daily Record reporter Don Carlson seated on a bench on Main St. reading a copy of this newspaper during the heavy snow storm which greeted spring.

MacLeod won second place in the sports division of this contest last year.

Local Jehovah's Witnesses To Attend New York Rally

JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES from the Brodheads and East Stroudsburg congregations yesterday announced plans are under way to attend an international convention of Jehovah's Witnesses in New York City this summer.

Fred N. Severud, presiding minister of the East Stroudsburg congregation, said the convention could well be the largest in the history of Jehovah's Witnesses. It is scheduled for July 27 through August 3 and will be held in Yankee Stadium and the Polo Grounds simultaneously.

The last international convention, attended by many of the local Witnesses, was held in 1953 in Yankee Stadium and reached a peak attendance of 165,000 including the overflow audiences. Watchtower officials, Severud said, have arranged this year for the program to be held in both places, with most program features repeated at the Polo Grounds immediately following the first presentation in Yankee Stadium.

Governing Agency
The Watchtower Bible & Tract Society, governing agency for Jehovah's Witnesses, has been making special travel arrangements for foreign delegates. Many missionaries who have served in other lands will also be brought to the United States for the Bible convention. Purpose of the gathering is to provide stimulus for the New York society of Jehovah's Witnesses in Christian association, Bible instruction and ministerial training.

This, Severud said, is in accordance with provisions made for God's people in Bible days. Severud stated that it is not yet known how many Witnesses from this area will attend, but, he added, special travel arrangements are being made to make it possible for the maximum number to attend. He said further, it may be necessary to make limited meeting arrangements or cancel local meetings altogether during convention time.

Launching Delayed
CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (P) — A Snark intercontinental guided missile launching was called off yesterday for the second time in five days when technical difficulties developed.

East Borough Delegates At Convention

TWO MEMBERS of the League of Women Voters of East Stroudsburg are attending a four-day study conference on the Pennsylvania Constitution which opened yesterday at Bucknell University, Lewisburg.

The local delegates are Mrs. Ennis Davis, chairman of the Constitution Committee, and Mrs. Fred W. Davis.

The conference is being sponsored jointly by the university and the Pennsylvania League of Women Voters. Both units feel the conference is particularly timely since a Pennsylvania Temporary Commission for Constitutional Revision was created by the last Legislature to study and make recommendations for possible changes.

Basic Laws
The league, which has been studying the Commonwealth's basic laws since 1954, hopes the study conference will give Pennsylvania citizens a basis for evaluating the commission's recommendations.

Dr. W. Brooke Graves, senior specialist on American government and public administration, Library of Congress, addressed yesterday's opening session. Other speakers were Dr. Elmer D. Graper, chairman, Pennsylvania State Civil Service Commission, and Dr. A. Leo Levin, University of Pennsylvania Law School.

The meetings will continue today and tomorrow, closing Thursday at noon with a summary of accomplishments by Mrs. Robert L. McGeehan, second vice president of the league and a member of the temporary commission.

Church To Hold Service

REV. FRANK Wingerter, Pastor of the Presbyterian Church of East Stroudsburg, will conduct a Preparatory Service for The Lord's Supper tomorrow at 7:30 p.m.

Mrs. Loring Cramer will assist the pastor at the console of the organ.

The purpose of the service is to create a clean atmosphere in the heart of each worshipper as well as in the life of the church.

Mr. Wingerter will speak about "The Peace of Christian Faith." His words will be based on the teaching of the Saviour as it is found in the Gospel according to St. Matthew 11:28: "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."

Forecast Proves Poor For Picnic

KANSAS CITY (P) — More than half an inch of rain fell yesterday, even though there was no mention of precipitation in the forecast, but you can't say the forecasters didn't have any interest in their work.

After looking at all the gadgets, as well as out the window, they had selected yesterday for the annual weather bureau picnic.

10 People Face Charges Of Harboring Unlicensed Dogs

ARTHUR L. SMITH, supervisor of the state of Pennsylvania dog law enforcement yesterday filed information for the arrest of 10 Monroe County residents for harboring unlicensed dogs.

Supervisor Smith said that this was the start of a two-month campaign to cover the entire county.

Yesterday's arrests were in the Saylorburg and Stroudsburg areas.

Summoned to appear before Ruth Miller, justice of the peace in Stroud Township were James Neyhart, Angelo Pansy, Clinton Simpson, Alfred Schollhamer, and Walter Hay of the Stroudsburgs.

Summoned to appear before George Kitchen, justice of the peace at Saylorburg, were Michael Terlingen, Alfred Davidson, Floyd Anglemeyer, Elmer Berger and Raymond Hawk.

Fines which may be levied on owners or those harboring unlicensed dogs range from $5 to $100 or imprisonment not to exceed 30 days or both plus the cost of the case.

Ruling May Go To Court

HARRISBURG (P)—The courts or the state Legislature eventually may have to clear the air over Atty. Gen. Thomas D. McBride's recent ruling that police officers may not detain a person in jail on the mere charge of "suspicion."

Reaction to the ruling, an Associated Press survey showed yesterday ranged from Philadelphia Dist. Atty. Victor Blane's "the attorney general is absolutely right" to Towanda Police Chief Dean Meredith's "the law favors the crook every time."

Department Request
HARRISBURG (P) — The State Highways Department yesterday was urged to reconstruct a short section of Route 14 near Dalmatia in Northumberland County to cut 2½ miles from the present route.

Just Between Us — —

—By Bobby Westbrook

Whether it was reaction from an overly busy week or the gradually clouding sky and lowering pressure, it's hard to say, but nobody seemed to be in a particularly merry mood yesterday.

The ebb and flow of human moods is not as predictable as the tide tables, and you're very apt to meet somebody on the way up while you're on the way down with the result that both of you are disgusted with the insensitivity of the other.

By and large, though, most people are down — or up — depending on the day of the week and the atmospheric pressure. And if there's nothing really radically wrong, sharing a general and indefinite feeling of malaise can be as comforting in its way as sharing in the general jubilation.

Grumping through breakfast and sharing a pessimistic view of the day's news; slumping at the check-out counter to complain about the price of everything, and the general futility of cooking and the pressing need for the invention of a new kind of edible animal;

Sighing over the impossibility of fitting the quantity of stories into the paucity of the space available, spending good working time agreeing that we're over-worked and under-appreciated, dragging home to complain about how tired we all are and yet making no move to go to bed.

There's a certain satisfaction in a day like that. Sort of relaxing after bouncing about on the crest of the wave to be just jelly-fishing in the hollows. But one day is enough. Let's buck up, shall we?

Scouts Home Again From Long Trip

(Special to The Daily Record from the Scout Trip to Nova Scotia, Janet Greener reporting.)

Home Again — We were awakened during the night in Boston by the doughnut man, but other than that we slept peacefully, overcome by our experience of being interviewed by reporters.

The first thing most of us did was to buy a copy of the Boston Daily Record to read the story about our group and to see a picture of David Chamberlain and myself eating with chopsticks.

After breakfast, a policeman joined us and we took a tour of the city of Boston. Some of the historical sites we visited were Paul Revere's home, Old Ironsides, and the park where we took a ride in a swan boat. We also visited Old North Church where we had the honor of being the first group to climb to the very top of the newly-reconstructed steeple.

On our way out of the city we stopped at Salvation Army Headquarters to sing for the colonel. He has the largest pencil collection in the world including pencils from President Eisenhower and Queen Elizabeth.

After stopping for food, we were happy on our homeward journey. We sang all during the day and our singing increased steadily in volume as we neared home. We were in back of Wyckoff's Store at 9:45 p.m.

We all gathered Thursday morning to clean the bus and to pick up forgotten articles. We are planning to hold our reunion at Wyckoff's Summer home on July 5.

Annual Bazaar And Dinner By WSCS

Mt. Pocono — Plans were discussed for the annual bazaar and ham and chicken dinner to be held at the Methodist Church, Aug. 16, when the WSCS met Wednesday. The church activities committee will plan the menu for the dinner. Mrs. L. C. Ingersoll will head the dining room committee, and Mrs. Earl Dennis is the poster committee chairman.

Mrs. Paul Courtwright, president, conducted the meeting, with 23 members present. Devotions were given by Mrs. James Mort, spiritual life secretary.

Following the business meeting, Mrs. Charles Peterson reviewed a chapter in the study book: Kingdom Beyond Caste.

The society voted to purchase another automatic coffee urn.

The hospitality committee served refreshments using rhododendron and pansies to decorate the table. The following served: Mrs. Art Carey, Mrs. Earl Brock, Mrs. Fred Brodell and Miss Marjory Bly.

Dames Of Malta Mark 51st Anniversary

St. John's Sisterhood, Dames of Malta, celebrated their 51st anniversary with a banquet at Greenview Guest Farm, Sciota, on Saturday with 69 present.

Queen Jennie Meixell welcomed the guests and introduced her officers. Ella M. Oakes, Chincilla, deputy of the sisterhood, was the guest speaker. Clifford Kintner, Past Grand Commander of Pa. spoke briefly. Cecelia Hagerty, protector, gave the invocation.

Mrs. Elsie Low was pianist, and in addition to her solo numbers played the accompaniment for the solos by Mrs. Howard Colett, "The Master Passeth By" and "You'll Never Walk Alone," as well as for the group singing.

Mrs. Fannie Johns, oldest person present, and Mr. and Mrs. Dayton Rogers of Mill City, the couple coming the farthest were given the floral centerpiece. Other gifts were presented to Mrs. Virgie Fleming, Mrs. Mildred Hamill and Mrs. Josephine Smith.

There were representatives from the Knights of Malta and guests from Scranton at the banquet. Christina Teeter was chairman with Marguerite Wagner, co-chairman, Lillian Stevens, Virgie Fleming, Elizabeth Hintze, Agnes Smith, Mary Price, Cecelia Hagerty and Josephine Smith on the committee.

Baked Goods For State Hospital Carnival Needed

A baked goods booth will be one of the features of the carnival for the patients of the Allentown State Hospital sponsored by the local Mental Health Assn. Cakes, pies, cookies and other features will be welcomed from any one who wishes to donate them.

In order to have them reach the carnival fresh and in time, the members of the Auxiliary to the Monroe County Medical Society have volunteered to call for them at the home.

Anyone who wishes to donate may call Mrs. Joseph Viglione, 811 Scott St., Tel. 2371, and arrangements will be made to call for them.

Woman Warden, Forester Speak On Big Pocono

Tannersville — Members of the Pocono Grange and their visitors from neighborhood granges know a lot more about Big Pocono State Park following their annual Visitation Meeting held at the grange hall in Tannersville.

As part of the State Grange program on "Know Your Own Country," Pocono Grange devoted its program to Big Pocono State Park. Mrs. Alfreda Henry gave a reading: "Walking in the Country." Mrs. Ruth Howell spoke of the history and legend which has grown up around the 300-year-old linden tree which stands along the road leading to the park.

Trim in her park uniform, Mrs. Forrest Motta, wearing her firewarden's badge, told of her duties on the tower and as a park guard, and read one of her own poems about the big mountain.

Eugene McNamara, district forester, told of the development of the park by the state and the recreation facilities it offers to local people as well as visitors. He showed colored slides of the park.

Among the guests at the meeting were District Deputy Alvin Blitz; District juvenile matron, Mrs. Alvin Blitz; Pocono lecturer, Mrs. Gertrude Hendershot, and members from Cherry Valley, Mount Prospect and Raymondskill Valley Granges. Cherry Valley grange led the opening and closing exercises.

A social hour with refreshments followed.

Democratic Women At Gregory's

The Women's Democratic Club of Monroe County held a supper meeting last week at the Summer home of Dr. and Mrs. John Gregory, Lake Minneola. Delegates to the state convention at Johnstown: Mrs. James Berger, Mrs. Gregory and Mrs. Earl Shaw, reported on the convention where Gov. Leader, Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt and Genevieve Blatt spoke.

Following the meeting, cards were played with prizes for each table.

Paraders Ate All Of Those 6,000 Sandwiches

Practically all of those 6,000 sandwiches made by the Acme Hose Co. Auxiliary were consumed following the parade on Saturday. The few that were left were bought by the firemen.

The auxiliary had planned to serve luncheon to about 30 state policemen and fire police on Saturday noon, but the number of luncheons needed kept mounting, and by rushing out and buying and baking another ham, the members served 60 or 70 luncheons to the special workers on duty for the parade.

Mrs. Margory Hunt, president, and the members of her committee yesterday expressed their grateful thanks to all the women of the community who turned out to help them.

NEW — at WYCKOFF'S

Our Keiller salesman dropped in at Wyckoff's the other day bringing two big bags of candy just off the boat from Scotland in two wonderful new flavors, Hazel Nut and Brazil Nut. Knowing Wyckoff's so well, after handling our account for a number of years, he was certain that Elsie Miller would be anxious to introduce the new bon bons, and he was right. They are on display right this minute in our center aisle, and everyone who has sampled them is most enthusiastic. As a matter of fact, Shorty Widmer, our advertising manager, was one of the first customers, and crammed his Marion's purse full of them when we headed for the movies Friday night.

The Keiller hard candy family is growing by leaps and bounds, and is still only one good bounce ahead of the demands of a loyal buying public. Long ago I named them the "sweethards of our candy department" and they are. No other hard candy begins to touch Keiller's consistent popularity. There are, as you know, a variety of fresh fruit flavors, licorice (now, I understand, being spelled "liquorice") chocolate crisps, the traditionally famous butterscotch, a comparatively new coffee that the public loves, and now these latest imports.

Try them all! They are wrapped individually in paper that never sticks despite the weather... they are made of the finest quality ingredients and are as nutritious as they are delicious... they are colorful and pretty in the candy dishes at home, and perfect for those decorative apothecary jars, and they leave your mouth feeling clean and fresh. Stock up on them for over the fourth. Your family and guests will love them!

While we're talking about things to eat, I should mention ways of preparing foods. In our stationery department one large counter is now devoted to a display of cookbooks, many of them brand new. In the big array I notice "What's Cooking at Stillmeadow" — the favorite recipes of Gladys Taber whose "Diary of Domesticity" has charmed readers of Ladies' Home Journal for years... the Oriental Cookbook, at 2.95, complete with chop sticks on the cover... Smorgasbord and Scandinavian Cookery at 1.95... and, at 1.50, a series of prettily illustrated loose leaf cookbooks devoted to the recipes of many countries, including our own Early America.

Marjorie Hunt tells me that since her daughter has returned from the Girl and Boy Scout trip with "Papa" Wyckoff, she has been teaching the family how to eat with chop sticks... an art she mastered in a Boston restaurant. I enjoy Chinese food, and would find the cookbook entrancing. But I'd better stick to knife and fork, or most of my concoctions would end up, I fear, on the floor.

40 Percent Of State Voters Take Part In Primary Election

Hansen In Complete Favor Of McBride's Recent Ruling

DETLEFF A. HANSEN, Monroe County district attorney, said last night he is in full agreement with a recent ruling of Pennsylvania Atty. Gen. Thomas D. McBride that police officers may not detain a person in jail on the mere charge of "suspicion."

"There is no such crime as suspicion," Hansen said. "A man should be charged with a specific crime if you're going to hold him. You may sometimes hold a man as a material witness but you're not holding him for a crime there."

Conclusion
The district attorney concluded, "If you can't prove your case, you don't have much of a case. Personally, I would never arrest anyone on suspicion of anything."

Reaction to McBride's ruling has ranged from complete accord on the part of some law enforcement officers to an attitude by some that the ruling is merely another example of the law favoring law breakers every time.

Bloodmobile To Be In East Borough

RED CROSS Bloodmobile will be in Monroe County today from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church, to give residents their last opportunity to give blood until September.

"Summer provides no vacation from the need for blood," J. Harold Pine, of the county blood donor committee said yesterday. "As a matter of fact, summer with its accidents often increases the need for emergency blood, particularly in this section."

High Level
"The supply of blood at the Blood Center must be kept high, at the very time when it is hardest to get donors to give blood."

Rev. Harold C. Eaton and a committee of 15 men from the church have recruited 60 pledges. That means that some 65 additional donors will be needed through walk-ins or appointments to secure the quota of 125 pints which will keep this county on the full-quota basis for the summer months.

Dark Moves Into Batting Picture

NEW YORK (AP) — One month and three days ago the St. Louis Cardinals gave up on 35-year-old Alvin Dark and traded him to the Chicago Cubs for pitcher Jim Brosnan.

As of yesterday, Dark is the major leagues' hottest batsman.

While Stan Musial, his former teammate, is in the throes of a .133 batting slump over the last 16 games, Dark has rushed into third place in the National League competition with 20 hits in his last 31 trips, lifting his average from .293 to .349.

Setting Pace

Musial has dipped to .360. Stan is still in the runner-up position

Kresge Rates Number Two On List

JIM RADER of Lake Harmony with a .531 average in eight games is leading batters of the Pocono Mountains Baseball League through games of last Sunday.

Rader had been at bat 32 times, had 17 hits and scored 10 runs, according to figures released by Clinton I. Getz, president.

Next in Line

Trailing him are "Red" Kresge, Kunkletown, with a .522 average in six games; Lee Hill, Lake Harmony with .485 in eight games; Harold Burckett, West End, .483, and Dick Heyer, Saylorsburg, .481.

Bobby Hallett of Tannersville is the leading scorer having tallied 15 runs in the eight games in which he has participated.

What Young People Think

Who Pops 'Going Steady' Question?

By Eugene Gilbert
President, Gilbert Youth
Research Co.

WHEN it comes to landing a steady, a sizable proportion of young American females is all for chucking traditional feminine wiles into the ash can. These modern girls prefer a more direct "me Jane, you Tarzan" type of approach.

For a long, long time, it has been an accepted standard of romance that the boy must take the initiative. When it came question-popping time, he did the popping. The shy, old-fashioned girl, if she were anxious, might lead him in some devious way to get on with it. But she would never think of asking the question herself.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 2. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figure give you.

More Talk Than Action
Today, many girls think the old-fashioned question-popping method unsound in the 20th Century and some of the fellows agree.

A full 20 per cent of the 682 teen-agers we questioned about the matter felt it quite all right for a girl to ask a boy to go steady.

More girls (24 per cent) than boys (16 per cent) felt this way. Still, only 4 per cent of the girls had acted on their conviction.

These figures may not seem too imposing, but when one considers the many barriers of custom, reserve and established standards of good breeding, they are significant.

Is this the whisking away of a false and arbitrary standard which deserved to go, or is it evidence of some greater change in the personality of our young women?

Can't Wait Forever
Lisa Skelly, 17, of San Antonio, Tex., voiced a modern version of an opinion shared by women down through the ages.

For Alicia Felsen, 18, of Chicago, such a step involves a great deal of soul searching. "It's not wrong for a girl to ask a fellow for a date, but going steady is another thing," she said. "It's much more serious."

But then, if girls always took the back seat where would civilization be? Why should we always have to wait, wait, wait? We have as much right to ask and get what we want as anyone.

Some Traditionalists
Joe Sherman, 18, of Baltimore, said, "Look, the women have always gotten the men to do the proposing. My mother tells me she practically put the words in my father's mouth. I guess some of them want to save time now."

Bob Talmage, a 17-year-old college freshman from San Francisco, told the smart thing to do is to make the man think he is doing the suggesting, but if the girl isn't that clever, she'll just come right out and ask, even if it is a little clumsy.

But not George Granit, 17, of Dallas. "Teen-agers who have been well brought up know what's right and wrong, and that applies to going steady," said George. "If they have to take a course, it's too late."

Two per cent of them said there is some course or special training in their school on the social etiquette of going steady. Eleven per cent thought such a course is a good idea.

the same one Grandma used to excuse her less direct methods. Said Lisa: "Sure I asked him. If I had waited for him to get around to it, I'd still be waiting. A

There were some old-line lads. Ralph DeMarco, 18, of Fresno, Calif., was one of these. "Sure a girl should have equal rights as a boy," he said. "But it just doesn't seem feminine for a girl to be so forward. Maybe I'm old-fashioned."

There were girls, too, who shared this philosophy. "I could never bring myself to ask a boy to go steady," said Gloria Moran, 16, of Boston. "If he really likes me, he'll ask. If not, then my asking him wouldn't do any good. Anyway, I wouldn't want a boy I could lead around by the nose."

Parents Conservative
Phyllis Hermon, 17, of Indianapolis, felt even more strongly: "No, a girl should not take the first step in suggesting going steady. That doesn't mean she's any less of a person. A girl should let the fellow wear the pants. When she's too aggressive she loses something. She isn't like a girl anymore."

The parents apparently remain conservative—95 per cent of the teen-agers interviewed.

Julie Raskin, 19-year-old college sophomore from Miami, struck another blow for the emancipation of women. "The day when the girl just hung around waiting breathlessly for a guy to say something is over," she said. "If two people like each other, the relationship should be equal."

Ike Presents Views To Military

QUANTICO, Va. (AP) — President Eisenhower gave the military directorate his views on the world situation and the armed forces yesterday in an unscheduled half-hour secret address.

The President set forth his views on "many subjects." White House press secretary James C. Hagerty reported, but Hagerty declined to detail them in talking to newsmen at the annual Defense Department conference.

For about 2 1/2 hours, the President listened to military, diplomatic and intelligence officials present summaries of situations in their respective fields.

Then Eisenhower was asked to speak. The expectation had been that if he chose to speak at all he probably would limit himself to a few off-hand remarks.

Wide Range
Instead, the chief executive reportedly explored a wide range of subjects during his 30-minute address.

Hagerty said he couldn't answer questions as to whether Eisenhower talked on the subject of limited war, such as could grow out of the critical Lebanon situation. But in view of Hagerty's reference to a discussion "about the world situation," it was assumed that the Middle East must have had a definite place in the President's talk.

About 175 civilian and military leaders of the defense establishment, led by Secretary Neil McElroy, were gathered in the Marine base meeting hall when the President arrived yesterday morning.

From Adm. Felix Stump, commander of all U.S. forces in the Pacific, the President and the conferees heard a summary of the United States' position in that area.

Allen W. Dulles, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, gave a rundown on what his listening posts abroad have reported in recent days.

And Christian Herter, under secretary of state, presented the diplomatic picture.

Eisenhower motored the 35 miles from the White House, planning on a round of golf after yesterday's business session, but rain interfered. Instead he attended a luncheon of the conferees and then climbed back into his car for the trip back to Washington.

The women of the Fire Auxiliary had their family picnic meeting at Memorial Park. They found it free from the gnats that have plagued other localities; and, enjoyed a meal prepared on the park fireplaces.

After the supper, at a brief business meeting, they decided to have the president, Mrs. Clifford Hauser, appoint a committee to canvas the borough for contributions toward the insurance on the park. They also voted to hold a bake sale in the Production By Bruch

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A hit Winter-time production of "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme" by Theatre Lobby will be repeated next month at Ferguson Amphitheatre near Accokeek, Md.

The production has been staged and directed by Charles M. Bruch of Stroudsburg, Penna. It was the biggest hit in Theatre Lobby's history.

Bruch's staging of the comedy will be seen July 11 and 12 at the outdoor theatre. Both the setting and expenses for the out-of-town appearance of the Moliere comedy are provided by the Alice Ferguson Foundation, an educational fund established by one of the founders of the Moyagone Reserve, the community development in which the Amphitheatre is located.

Several New Books At Library

By Carolyn Shaffer
Monroe County Public Library
Young People's Division
WE HAVE these new books of fiction:

Mystery at Shadow Pond by Mary C. Jane (J. B. Lippincott-1958). Three young people trying to save the family farm become involved in an exciting mystery which centers on the lost letters of a famous New England artist. (Ages 8-12.)

Ride Like An Indian by Henry V. Larom (Whitlsey House-1958). A quiet boy finds himself spending a summer on a dude ranch where he discovers that Applesauce, his beginner's mount, is an Apaloosa that can be trained to run with the swiftest horses. (Ages 8-12.)

Happiness For Kimi by Frances Lattimore (Morrow-1958). Mrs. Lattimore's first book to be set in Japan captures the atmosphere of that country and presents an endearing independent young heroine. (Ages 7-10.)

Yertle the Turtle and Other Stories by Dr. Seuss (Random House-1958). Not one, but three stories are written in rollicking verse and illustrated in three colors: The Big Brag, Gertrude McFuss and Yertle the Turtle. (Ages 6-9.)

Time of Wonder by Robert McCloskey (Viking Press-1958). "In simple rhythmic prose, which does not need the occasional rhymed word to make it pure poetry, the author tells of a Maine Island that is home." — A Caldecott Award Book. (The very young.)

Fun With Shells by Joseph Leeming (J. B. Lippincott-1958). This is a fascinating craft book full of ideas and directions about the popular hobby of making things with shells. (Ages 10 and up.)

That Needs
Slimming
Most...
Then Let Vibra-Slim
Go To Work!

TUMMY, WAIST:
Conditions, tones and exercises weak, inelastic muscles... helps tighten sagging skin. It's the pleasant "minutes a day" way to spot-reduce unsightly fatty deposits on your Vibra-Slim "home salon" reducing program... without starvation diets! Delightful tingling vibrations are so kitten soft... so whisper-quiet!

BACK, BUTTOCKS:
Like a thousand busy fingers massaging you... blissful Vibra-Slim pulsations set fatty tissues into exercising, slenderizing motion, gives many times more massaging action than a professional rubdown. So soothing too... and how pleased you'll be as embarrassing bulges are whittled down the Vibra-Slim way... as excess layers of flesh are remolded into sleeker, smoother more curvaceous lines.

SPOT-MASSAGES YOU 3200 TIMES PER MINUTE!

Like having a private reducing salon in your own home!

Yes, your first two weeks of daily slimming sessions with Vibra-Slim pays for the entire cost of the machine itself in money you save on salon fees.

Stretch Out Like a Pampered Princess And Slenderize While You Relax!

Vibra-Slim gives you the same spot-reducing benefits as the finest reducing salons... and there are no appointments to make, no travel, no inconvenience. So luxurious, too! Just 15 minutes a day helps whisk unwanted inches away while you read, watch TV, even nap. And you'll be the proud owner of a marvelous "home salon" exerciser that the whole family can use and enjoy for years to come for invigorating body tone... penetrating deep massage... soothing relief for minor aches and pains... healthful "exercise without effort!"

More effective in a few minutes than days of exhausting exercise

To get the merest idea of how much excess flabby tissue your Vibra-Slim exerciser can massage and manipulate in just one minute's time—do this: Just place both your hands on your waist, thighs or tummy... and gently rotate your hands.

Now imagine if you can, that this soothing manipulation is going on at the fantastic rate of 3200 times a minute... and you'll begin to understand how Vibra-Slim is so remarkably helpful in coaxing excess puffy flesh into taut, smooth lines so quickly! And remember, it is this speeded-up motion of your tissues... 3200 times per minute... that aids in fast, effective, spot reduction... that actually helps trim down the size of your measurements wherever it embarrasses you most! Your own measurements before and after starting your Vibra-Slim slenderizing program will dramatically prove that to you!

Every conceivable advantage of the finest salon methods is yours with Vibra-Slim. Along with your machine you also get a generous supply of Vibra-Slim's safe, proven appetite suppressant for lowering your caloric intake without special diets of any kind whatever.

Remember, Vibra-Slim goes to work directly on the cause of your "Fatty Problem Spots"—helps to firm and tighten while you relax.

So now is it any wonder why the Vibra-Slim method can actually accomplish in just a few days what exhausting exercise can only accomplish in weeks, even months. Or why it's more efficient than a professional rubdown in an expensive salon. Remember, no two hands... or even a dozen, can possibly put so many of your tissues into scientific slimming motion at once. Best of all, you'll know as the minutes fly by that you're creating a newer, lovelier you... that each luxurious flexing vibration is molding you toward perfection and that its magic slimming action is helping to take years off your figure as you arise refreshed, alive, glowing, stimulated!

HIPS, THIGHS, CALVES, UNDER KNEES, ARMS: You'll love the way Vibra-Slim's exclusive contour-shape home exerciser snugly fits around fleshy limbs and fatty layers... saturates sagging tissues with a delicious shower of purring pulsations. Excess flab seems to vanish away like magic on your safe, scientific Vibra-Slim spot-reducing program. You look inches slimmer... firmer, smoother too!

Exclusive contour shape fits any part of your body.
